

Reward components over training

Correctness and format shaping are separated to expose reward hacking risk.

A format or partial-number signal can diverge from true numeric correctness, so report both separately.